Understanding & Applying Rule 40

Emergency & Disaster Planning Are You Ready?

Understanding & Applying Rule 40

Presented by Becky Eikmeier, Program Services Consultant/QMRP

Wednesday April 21, 2010

12:30 pm - 4:00 pm

Cost: $55.00

CEUs
3.6 for
Nurses
3 for Social Workers

This session is divided into two sections designed to provide managers with understanding on the details of Rule 40, which governs the use of aversive and deprivation procedures for individuals with developmental disabilities. Proper understanding and implementation of these procedures is necessary to ensure respectful care of individuals.

The first section will provide information on:

- The purposes of Rule 40
- Established definitions of exempted, prohibited, and controlled procedures
- When an Emergency Use of Controlled Procedure (EUCP) may be used and its reporting requirements

The second section will outline:

- Applicable criteria and steps to develop a Rule 40 plan
- Documentation requirements for the plan
- Company and state committee reviews
- Elements to quarterly reporting

Audience: QMRPs and/or managers who are responsible for writing and reviewing all uses of controlled procedures will benefit from this course, whether for the first time or as a refresher!

Fire, severe weather, natural disasters, pandemic flu, terrorist attacks; catastrophe can happen anywhere, anytime. Are you prepared for that day? Disaster planning can be difficult for any business, but when working with individuals with disabilities, there are additional challenges you as a provider will face. This disaster planning class will address the unique concerns providers face when preparing for and responding to emergencies while working with people with disabilities.

As a participant you will :

- Review the types of disasters your company needs to be prepared for, including some that you may have not have considered before
- Identify how to appropriately plan for these disasters
- Learn how to respond and implement your plan should a disaster occur

Audience: This course is ideal for owners, executive directors, program directors and program managers who are responsible for the development and implementation of disaster planning.

Leane Vandrovec, Program Services Consultant/QMRP
